

COZY in LOVE
SPACES

Pro tips to Measuring Your Space

Designing spaces in your life with impact + heart

Tip #1

Gather up your gear!

So, you're working with an Interior Designer via E-Design and need to provide measurements? Never fear, we will guide you with our Top Tips for Measuring Your Space!

First step, gather up your gear!

~Clipboard

~25' Measuring Tape

~Laser Tape Measurer (optional, but a real saver!!)

~Pencil and Paper

Tip #2

Basic Floor Layout

Start with drawing a basic outline of the floor layout, including notation of where windows, doorways, and trim are.

Indicate the direction of the swing of the door (does it swing out or into the room?)

Be consistent with measuring in inches

Denote the ceiling height (CH = 108")

Mark and measure locations of floor air vents and floor plug-ins

Tip #3

Wall Elevations

Wall elevations are especially helpful when designing artwork galleries and placement of lighting, mirrors, window coverings, and shelving.

When measuring a wall, measure the space excluding any window or door trim (this is your "workable wall space" for artwork for example).

When measuring a window, measure from the inside of the trim, as well as overall measurements (including space above to the ceiling). Denote any window ledge height from the finished floor (as well as the height of the ledge and trim itself!).

Measure window and door trim separately.

Mark and measure any light switches, cable plug-ins, etc.

Tip #4

Other Considerations

Finally, measure any furniture, accessories, and area rugs that will remain in the space that you would like the Interior Designer to work into your design.

Include the width (W), height (H), length (L), and depth (D) in inches, as appropriate and make sure to label each so that there is no mix-up in measurements (e.g. 2"W x 2"H x 2"D)!

Still have questions? Facetime or Zoom with your designer to assist!

COZY in LOVE
SPACES

Lets get designing!

Designing spaces in your life with
impact + heart

www.cozyinlovespaces.com
design@cozyinlovespaces.com